1. Websites of other college fest:

IIT Bombay's Mood Indigo:

User friendliness:
It was a really colourful website where the user will be attracted more and the full website including the loading was also animated nicely.

Accessibility of important features:
Accessibility of important features like registry/login for the events and the details of the events was good and the contact page was more attractive for me where the details and the social media link of the team cores was designed well.

Error handling:
The error handling was also well planned and when i am accessing i didn't get any errors.

Performance and speed:
The performance and speed was ultimate and it will be a major thing that the user will get interested more in the speed of the information.

NIT Trichy's Festember:

User friendliness:

It was also user friendly but quite dull compare to the moodi.org.It was simply like they didn't include any reference image of the events and competition

Accessibility of important features:

They have included the navigation drawer and scroll down to the last page to search for the details. I feel it will be better if they include a navigation title bar in the top where the accessibility will be better.

Error handling:

The error handling was also good and I didn't feel any errors while accessing.

Performance and speed:

I am satisfied with speed and performance and it was decent.
